J. William Fulbright Foreign Scholarship Board

It is my privilege to present the Annual Report for 2009-2010, my first year as Chair of the J. William Fulbright Foreign Scholarship Board.

The theme of the report is Investing in Leadership. When he conceived of this program, Senator Fulbright believed in the multiplier effect of international education and its potential for developing leaders and influencing large numbers of people. He has been proven right. Just in this past year, I was delighted to send congratulatory letters to three Fulbright alumni who became heads of their governments: the new Presidents of Chile and Colombia, and the Prime Minister of the Slovak Republic. A number of their appointed ministers are also Fulbright alumni. As of today 28 Fulbright alumni have served as a head of state or government. Eleven Fulbright alumni have been elected to the United States Congress. Two Fulbright alumni received Nobel prizes this year, making a total of 43 Fulbright alumni from 11 countries who are recipients of the Nobel Prize.

In addition to documenting the great impact that participants and alumni have on their communities, this report also relates our Board's deliberations. We reviewed regional program developments in the Middle East and North Africa, and East Asia and the Pacific. We also approved creative cooperative funding arrangements and public-private partnerships that allow us to share the cost burden with partner countries. I got firsthand experience of the impact of Fulbright exchanges in Afghanistan, Canada, Kenya, Sierra Leone, the United Kingdom, Ukraine and Italy. One of my earliest experiences as a Board Member, however, was in New York City. One hundred and twenty Fulbrighters representing 67 countries fanned out to 15 different sites throughout the city, including soup kitchens, food pantries, and youth community centers. A student from Iraq was surprised—but impressed—when I shared with him that these facilities were supported mainly by volunteers. When the Fulbrighters reconvened later that day, they discussed how voluntarism can promote positive social change, and how they could be agents of change.

The Fulbright name is recognized all around the world. It means a premier educational opportunity and a life-changing experience. Our Board recognizes and appreciates that many people from many different places and walks of life make this the strong, robust and prestigious program that it is. We are grateful for the fine work and efforts of the binational Fulbright commissions, the officials in our partner governments and universities and cooperating agencies, the Ambassadors and staff at American embassies overseas and partner embassies in Washington, and the Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs, now ably led by Assistant Secretary Ann Stock.

Our Board is proud to do our part to support Senator Fulbright's goal of "fostering leadership, learning and empathy between cultures." This remains the purpose of the international scholarship program he sponsored in the United States Senate over 60 years ago. The need to find global solutions is still great, and we are pleased to report that the Fulbright Program continues to yield results. It remains one of our most successful foreign investments.

MALAWI

Fulbright-mtvU Fellow Uses Music to Support Families and Communities Affected by HIV/AIDS

Andrew Magill, a graduate of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill (UNC), spent his 2009 Fulbright-mtvU year producing a concept album with well-known Malawian musician and children's activist Peter Mawanga. Partnering with the UNC Malawi Project and other projects, Magill traveled through Malawi collecting narratives from Malawians of different genders, regions, and wealth and age groups who all share the common thread of being profoundly affected by HIV/AIDS. These narratives explore how issues such as stigma of infection, gender, and other cultural factors define the HIV/AIDS epidemic in Malawi. Ten of these narratives were converted into songs, the literal words of these people's stories being woven into lyrics about their lives. The music of each song captures the person's personality and mood of the story. More importantly, each song spotlights a different aspect of Malawi's HIV epidemic from varying perspectives. The sales of these albums are intended to benefit AIDS orphans and afflicted families through Malawian grassroots organizations. The Fulbright-mtvU fellowships are a public-private partnership, which seeks to use the "power of music" as a force of mutual understanding.

Fulbright Student Researches Peanut Farming Technology in Malawi

2009-2010 Fulbright Student to Malawi Amanda Shing studied appropriate technologies with an emphasis on an invention called the Universal Nut Sheller (UNS), a low cost, human-powered device designed to shell various nuts. The UNS has the potential to help small-holder farmers improve productivity, reduce and ease labor, and earn more income; however, Ms. Shing discovered that the hand hoe is still the most popular tool for farming in Malawi. As a result of her research and interviews, she learned that distribution, local availability, marketing and cultural acceptance was more important to making existing technologies successful. Ms. Shing is a 2008 graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) in Cambridge, where she studied chemistry.

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF STATE

The Fulbright Student Program

For U.S. and foreign graduate students and graduating seniors.

- In 2009, 1,575 Americans studied abroad with either full or partial support from the Fulbright Program. This figure includes the Fulbright English Teaching Assistantships Program.
- In 2009, 3,096 foreign students were offered new or renewed grant awards for study at U.S. universities. This figure includes the Fulbright Foreign Language Teaching Assistant Program.

The Fulbright Scholar Program

For U.S. and foreign scholars and professionals to lecture and/or conduct research in a wide variety of academic and professional fields, including the humanities, social sciences, physical sciences, and business administration.

- In 2009, 1,049 Americans studied and taught or conducted post doctoral research.
- In 2009, 850 visiting scholars came to the United States to lecture or conduct post doctoral research for an academic year or term. Of these, 43 Scholars-in-Residence spent up to a year teaching on U.S. college and university campuses, with a primary focus on institutions that serve underserved and minority audiences such as Historically Black Colleges and Universities, Hispanic-Serving Institutions, Tribal Colleges, small liberal arts colleges and community colleges.

The Fulbright Teacher Exchange Program

For U.S. and foreign teachers primarily at the secondary level—often a one-to-one exchange.

- In 2009, 147 teachers from 17 countries participated in semester and year-long Fulbright Classroom Teacher Exchange or the Distinguished Fulbright Awards in Teaching.

The Hubert H. Humphrey Fellowship Program

The Hubert H. Humphrey Fellowship Program promotes leadership development in professional fields critical to U.S. relations with developing and transitioning countries. The program brings mid-career professionals from around the world to the United States for a year of academic coursework, professional development, and leadership training. Grants are given in various fields, including public health, economic development, finance and banking, environmental management, educational planning, higher education administration, and law and human rights. In 2009, there were 187 Humphrey Fellows from 113 countries and locales.

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

The overseas IFLE Service programs are authorized by section 102(b)(6) of the Fulbright-Hays Act, and are administered and funded by the U.S. Department of Education (USED) under a Congressional appropriation to USED. They are one way programs designed to promote and improve the nation's resources in the less commonly taught languages (LCTLs) and the areas of the world in which those languages are spoken.

In 2009, these four Fulbright-Hays programs supported a total of 1,061 American teachers and prospective teachers, who received their support through U.S. institutions of higher education, organizations or interagency agreements.

The Fulbright-Hays Doctoral Dissertation Research Abroad (DDRA) Program

The purpose of the DDRA Program is to improve, develop and maintain a national capacity to meet the nation's need for specialists in the LCTLs and those areas of the world in which those languages are spoken by providing awards to doctoral candidates, whose career goal is teaching, to engage in full-time doctoral dissertation research abroad in the field of modern foreign language and area studies. In 2009, 147 doctoral candidates received fellowships.

The Fulbright-Hays Faculty Research Abroad (FRA) Program

The purpose of the FRA Program is to improve, develop, and maintain a national capacity to meet the nation's need for specialists in the LCTLs and those areas of the world in which those languages are spoken. The program provides fellowships to language and area studies specialists teaching at U.S. institutions of higher education to enable them to conduct research abroad on projects designed to enhance the nation's knowledge base. In 2009, 19 scholars received fellowships.

The Fulbright-Hays Group Projects Abroad (GPA) Program

The GPA Program provides grants to institutions of higher education (IHEs), state departments of education, private nonprofit educational organizations or combinations thereof to conduct overseas group projects designed to develop and improve modern foreign language and area studies throughout the educational structure of the United States. Types of activities supported include: teacher seminars designed to provide a non-Western perspective on contemporary issues; curriculum teams to develop and field test instructional materials; group research by faculty, teachers and/or students on specific aspects of societies and cultures underrepresented to a significant degree in the curricula of schools, colleges, and universities; and advanced intensive language programs in the LCTLs. In 2009, grants for 49 group projects involving 821 participants were awarded.

The Fulbright-Hays Seminars Abroad Program

The Seminars Abroad Program provides four- to six-week summer seminars, designed by USED and Fulbright commissions, for K-12 teachers, administrators and curriculum specialists of state and local educational agencies, and college faculty in the fields of foreign languages, social sciences, arts and humanities. Upon their return, participants are expected to submit a curriculum project that demonstrates what they plan to implement in their classroom and share their broadened knowledge and experiences with students, colleagues, members of civic and professional organizations, and the public in their home communities through various outreach activities. Individual applicants are evaluated by the U.S. Department of Education, with the assistance of academic review panels, and then submitted to the J. William Fulbright Foreign Scholarship Board for final selection. Overseas activities are supported by USED funds under the terms of inter-agency agreements between USED and the State Department. In 2009, nine seminars involving 141 participants were funded.

ORGANIZATIONS

Principal Organizations for the Fulbright Program

The J. William Fulbright Foreign Scholarship Board was created by Congress to supervise the Fulbright Program. Appointed by the President of the United States, the Board is composed of 12 members drawn from academic, cultural and public life. The intent was to establish an impartial and independent body that would ensure the respect and cooperation of the academic world for the educational exchange program, particularly in the selection of grantees and of educational institutions qualified to participate. The Board sets policies and procedures for administration of the program, has final responsibility for approving selection of all grantees, and supervises the conduct of the program both in the United States and abroad.

U.S. Department of State

The U.S. Department of State's Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs (ECA) serves as the administrative and executive arm of the Fulbright Program. ECA has fiscal responsibility for the preparation of an annual budget request to Congress and the Bureau makes decisions on how allocations of the funds, finally approved by Congress, will be made to participating countries. Under policies established by the J. William Fulbright Foreign Scholarship Board, ECA has primary responsibility for the administration of the program, together with the assistance of cooperating non-profit organizations. ECA administers the program abroad through binational commissions and U.S. embassies.

In a U.S. embassy abroad, commonly referred to as "the post," exchange program activities are the responsibility of a Public Affairs Officer or a Cultural Affairs Officer. At least one of these officers is a member of the local binational commission and maintains for the Bureau the liaison with the commission on policy and program matters. In countries without a commission, the Public Affairs Officer or Cultural Affairs Officer administers the educational exchange program.

U.S. Department of Education

The U.S. Department of Education's Office of Postsecondary Education administers the overseas International Education and Foreign Language Studies program authorized by section 102 (b)(6) of the Fulbright-Hays Act. This program differs from other Fulbright-Hays activities in that its objectives are research and training with no provision for lecturing assignments overseas and no direct exchanges. The program is meant to improve U.S. education in modern foreign language and area and international studies, and is part of the U.S. educational effort in those fields.

Binational Fulbright Commissions

Binational commission boards are composed of equal numbers of resident Americans and partner nation nationals. There are currently 50 Fulbright commissions; Belgium and Luxembourg share a single commission in Brussels. Commissions plan and implement educational exchanges that best promote the Program's objective in a bilateral context, including selection of grantees, fundraising, alumni relationships, and in many countries operating an information service on U.S. study. An executive director and staff are responsible for implementing the commission's programs.

ORGANIZATIONS

Cooperating Organizations for the Fulbright Program

The Department of State's Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs is assisted by several organizations in the implementation of the Fulbright Program in the United States and abroad.

- IIE (The Institute of International Education) conducts the U.S. student competition and is responsible for the placement and day-to-day supervision of the majority of foreign student grantees in the United States, and for conducting orientation and enrichment seminars for first year foreign student grantees. IIE also administers the Hubert H. Humphrey Fellowship Program.
- CIES (The Council for International Exchange of Scholars), affiliated with the Institute of International Education, assists in the exchange of lecturers and research scholars and is responsible for the screening of U.S. lecturer and research scholar candidates and the day-to-day administration of the exchange program for research scholars and lecturers from abroad.
- LASPAU (Academic and Professional Programs for the Americas) administers the Fulbright Faculty Development Program for Latin America and the Caribbean.
- AMIDEAST (America Mideast Educational and Training Services, Inc.), with field offices in the Middle East and North Africa, conducts recruitment and arranges study in the United States for graduate students from the region and handles the day-to-day supervision of these students.
- AED (Academy for Educational Development) assists in administration and recruitment for the one-to-one exchange of Fulbright classroom teachers. This includes processing of U.S. applicants and the matching of U.S. participants with international counterparts.

OTHER ORGANIZATIONS SUPPORTING THE FULBRIGHT PROGRAM

Fulbright Association

The Fulbright Association, a private, nonprofit membership organization, engages current and former Fulbright exchange participants in lifelong experiences that advance international understanding through volunteer service to communities, people-to-people diplomacy and dialogue on global issues. The Fulbright Association advocates increased worldwide support for Fulbright exchanges. Forty-seven chapters organized and led by Fulbright alumni volunteers advance international education and serve the Fulbright community in 36 states and the District of Columbia. Chapters organize educational and cultural programs that enrich the experience of visiting Fulbright students, scholars and teachers during their stays in U.S. host communities. The Fulbright Association is pleased to partner with the U.S. Department of State's Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs on programs serving Fulbright alumni and visiting Fulbrighters. More than 9,000 individual members and nearly 200 colleges, universities, and international organizations support the Fulbright Association. The Association's web site at www.fulbright.org features an online community for Fulbright alumni and a searchable directory. The Fulbright Association also works closely with more than 70 national Fulbright alumni organizations abroad.

Fulbright Alumni Organizations Abroad

More than 70 countries have Fulbright alumni organizations that welcome American Fulbrighters to their communities, facilitating the settling-in process, assisting them in their research, introducing them to cultural and social activities, and often conducting fundraising to increase the number of Fulbright awards. These associations play an important role in raising the profile of the Fulbright Program abroad.
