ANNUAL 08•09 REPORT
A report of grants made in fiscal year 2008 and implemented in 2009
Since its creation by the U.S. Congress in the fall of 2000, the U.S. Ambassadors Fund for Cultural Preservation has provided grants in support of more than 500 cultural preservation projects in more than 100 developing countries. This accomplishment, now eight years in the making, represents a contribution of more than $16 million towards the preservation of cultural heritage worldwide. More importantly, it shows the depth of our nation’s respect for the cultural heritage of other countries.

In 2008, U.S. ambassadors in more than 90 countries around the globe applied to the fund on behalf of their host countries for support in meeting pressing cultural preservation needs. Among those receiving grants in 2008 were the Hubei Provincial Museum in China for the preservation of ancient silk embroideries; the Botshabelo Development Community Trust in South Africa for the restoration of a former church in an ethnically diverse mission settlement; and the Commission to Preserve National Monuments of Bosnia and Herzegovina for the preservation of the main gate and selected tombstones in the Jewish Cemetery of Sarajevo.

The Ambassadors Fund entered a new phase in 2008, when, at the direction of the U.S. Congress, it awarded three grants of more than $500,000 in support of large-scale partnership-based projects to preserve ancient sites in Afghanistan, Cambodia, and Guatemala. Through support of these projects, the U.S. joins the ranks of other countries which have committed to making significant investments in preserving cultural sites of global significance in developing countries around the world.

Speaking at a July 2008 grant-signing ceremony at the Museum of Art of El Salvador, U.S. Ambassador to El Salvador, Charles L. Glazer noted that “preserving, respecting, and protecting the cultural legacy of our societies and of the world at large is a mission our governments and our fellow citizens share.” By supporting the preservation of cultural heritage, the U.S. Ambassadors Fund for Cultural Preservation helps extend its value as a vital and defining element of communities and nations and helps ensure its continued use, enjoyment, and relevance both today and beyond.

About the U.S. Ambassadors Fund for Cultural Preservation

The U.S. Ambassadors Fund for Cultural Preservation (AFCP) provides grants in support of the preservation of cultural sites, cultural objects and collections, and forms of traditional cultural expression such as music and dance in more than 100 countries around the world. Established by Congress in 2001 (Public Law 106–553) and administered by the Cultural Heritage Center within the Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs, U.S. Department of State, the Ambassadors Fund for Cultural Preservation is the only program of its kind in the U.S. government. In establishing the fund, Congress noted that “Cultural preservation offers an opportunity to show a different American face to other countries, one that is non-commercial, non-political, and non-military. By taking a leading role in efforts to preserve cultural heritage, we show our respect for other cultures by protecting their traditions.”

About the Cultural Heritage Center

The Cultural Heritage Center supports the foreign affairs functions of the U.S. Department of State that relate to the preservation of cultural heritage. In addition to the Ambassadors Fund, the Center administers U.S. responsibilities relating to the 1970 UNESCO convention to reduce pillage and illicit trafficking in cultural property.

In 2008, U.S. ambassadors in 94 eligible countries submitted 190 project proposals totaling more than $11 million. Following a thorough screening, review, and selection process the U.S. Ambassadors Fund for Cultural Preservation awarded 72 grants totaling $4.73 million for projects in 60 countries worldwide.

The Cultural Heritage Center used the United Nations Human Development Index for 2007 as a guide for determining eligible countries. Since 2001, the fund has supported 508 projects worldwide totaling $16 million.

Program Implementation

On December 7, 2007, the Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs issued a request for proposals for projects to preserve cultural heritage in the following three categories—
• Cultural sites
• Cultural objects and collections of objects from a site, a museum, or similar institution
• Forms of traditional cultural expression

The proposals had to indicate the importance of the site, object, collection, or form of expression; address the need and urgency of the proposed project; and describe the impact of the U.S. contribution to the project and how that contribution would advance U.S. diplomatic goals. They also had to include detailed project budgets and information on cost participation (including in-kind contributions) from foreign governments, international organizations, and the private sector, as well as adhere to other criteria and guidelines.

The Bureau announced 69 of the cultural preservation grants on June 13, 2008.

On March 7, 2008, the Bureau invited the U.S. Embassies in Phnom Penh, Guatemala City, and five other embassies to submit proposals for support through the Ambassadors Fund for large-scale partnership-based cultural preservation projects of at least $500,000. On May 30, July 30, and September 4, 2008, the Bureau awarded its first grants for large-scale cultural preservation projects in Cambodia, Afghanistan, and Guatemala, respectively. All three grants supported the preservation of ancient sites.
Cultural sites are versatile legacies. As remnants of times long gone, these places are highly valuable in the present, whether as remembrances of civilizations, as tourist sites, or restored for modern use. These sites retain the values and creativity of the past, and preserving them opens a dialogue with the present about ideals, skills, community, and stewardship.

Cultural sites vary widely in time, character, and space. They include expansive archaeological sites, sacred spaces, and ancient monuments, as well as historic buildings of all sizes, purposes, and eras. Projects in this category may address the physical security or emergency stabilization of a site, the full or partial restoration of a building, or the documentation of structures for preservation or management planning.

The Ambassadors Fund for Cultural Preservation supported 36 projects at cultural sites in 2008. Among them is the preservation of the 4th-century BC Thracian Tomb of Kran II in the Valley of the Thracian Kings in Bulgaria, and the restoration of a 19th-century hacienda in Ecuador. The Ambassadors Fund also supported the restoration of three Buddhist cultural monuments in the remote Upper Mustang region of Nepal.

These Buddhist monuments, or chhortens, belong to the ethnic Loba minority of agrarian Nepal, an area beginning to experience development and influence from the outside world. Made of earth, stone, and wood, the fragile chhortens are already subject to great environmental stress. They are at further risk if their traditional cultural significance diminishes in the wake of modern pressures. The project will engage local residents in the restoration for the purpose of instructing young people in traditional construction techniques, materials, and maintenance for chhortens.
Cultural objects & Collections

Cultural objects demonstrate the artistic, scientific, and spiritual genius of humanity. When it survives the passage of time, this movable, tangible cultural heritage holds great value, not only for descendants of those cultures, but also for scholars and the world community.

The Cultural Objects & Collections category covers a wide variety of objects, including paintings, sculptures, manuscripts, textiles, and ethnographic objects. Projects in this category typically address an urgent need for conservation treatment, the inventory of a collection for conservation purposes, the creation of safe environments for the storage or display of collections, or technical training in the care and preservation of cultural objects and collections.

In 2008, the Ambassadors Fund supported 24 projects to preserve cultural objects and collections. These projects include the conservation of 40 icons from the 16th through the 19th centuries at the Kazymyr Cathedral Museum of Sacred Art in Lviv, Ukraine, and the preservation of the collections of the National Museum of the Republic of Congo, providing much-needed equipment for the protection of Congolese cultural heritage. The Fund also supported the inventory and registration of the art objects of 20 churches in the historic center of Arequipa, Peru’s second-largest city and a UNESCO World Heritage Site.
The churches of Arequipa hold a significant portion of the city’s colonial-era cultural heritage, including paintings, sculptures, murals, textiles, decorative arts, liturgical items, gold and silver, photographs and more. Increasingly these churches and their objects are targets for theft.

The project in Arequipa is the starting point of a larger effort to identify the number of cultural patrimony objects in these 20 churches. The project involves the photographic documentation of each item, analysis of its material content, and a conservation needs assessment. The resulting inventory will assist the Archdiocese of Arequipa and the Institute of National Culture of Peru in their efforts to protect these objects and recover them in the event of theft.
Forms of traditional cultural expression are particularly at risk when buffeted by time and change. Dependent as they are on human practitioners, expressive forms of culture such as dance, music, poetry, language, and crafts can easily disappear with the passing of a generation or the disruption of a community. Documenting a culture’s expressions can breathe new life into them, and can help younger generations reclaim traditions on the brink of extinction.

In 2008, the Ambassadors Fund for Cultural Preservation supported 12 projects in the Forms of Traditional Cultural Expression category. Among them is the documentation of the narrative traditions of five indigenous Amazonian languages in Brazil. In Beirut, the Ambassadors Fund supported the documentation of the last remaining fragments of wedding songs and rituals that exist in the memories of an aging community. And in the Philippines, the Ambassadors Fund helped with the preservation of the oral heritage of chanters in Ifugao Province.

The Hudhud epics and the Alim chant are rituals indigenous to the Ifugao, builders of the famed Banaue Rice Terraces, a UNESCO World Heritage Site. The chants exist only orally, and the practitioners are elderly. Left undocumented, these ancient chants are at risk of being lost forever. Documentation arising from this project will be available to scholars, performers, and school children, ensuring that the epics and chants will never be forgotten.
Restoration of the 14th-Century Mosque of Old Dongola. U.S. Embassy Khartoum
“The U.S. is proud to support the preservation of this historic mosque, which represents the earliest influences of Islam in Tanzania. Like Tanzania, the U.S. has what President Barack Obama called in his inauguration address a ‘patchwork heritage’ of many faith religions. We know this heritage is a strength, not a weakness, and adds to the cultural fabric of the society.”

Karen Grissette, Cultural Affairs Officer, U.S. Embassy Dar es Salaam, Tanzania

Africa

Burundi
Preservation and Display of the Collection of the National Museum in Gitega
$25,000 To support the preservation of the museum’s collection of traditional tools, clothes, instruments, weapons, and other artifacts of the indigenous Twa, Hutu, and Tutsi people. The goal of the project is to expand the museum’s capacity to display and protect the culturally valuable objects of Burundian life in its possession.

Cape Verde
Conservation and Display of the Collection of the Archaeological Museum of Praia
$37,500 To support the continuation of work begun under a previous Ambassadors Fund grant to create an appropriate museum environment and to train staff in the management and care of collections. The museum preserves artifacts salvaged from the wrecks of ships involved in the transatlantic slave trade from the 15th to the 19th century.

Congo (Republic of)
Preservation of the Collections of the National Museum of the Republic of Congo
$44,166 To support the preservation of the collections of the national museum, which continues to recover from the debilitating effects of two civil wars. The national museum is steward of a collection of more than 2,200 masks, musical instruments, statues, pottery, and arts and crafts. The project includes the purchase of equipment needed to preserve and protect Congolese cultural heritage.
Restoration of Historic Pathways in the Old City of Fianarantsoa, U.S. Embassy Antananarivo
G a b o n
Preventive Conservation of the Collections in the National Museum of Art and Traditions

$35,780 To support the conservation of fragile paper and wood artifacts in the museum’s collections, improvements to the conservation environment, and training for the museum staff in the care of objects. This project follows the recent renovation of the museum’s infrastructure and the completion of a conservation assessment.

G u i n e a
Preservation of the 19th-Century Museum Building of Boké and Its Collections

$22,651 To support the restoration of the museum building and the conservation of its collection of ethnographic objects and manuscripts. Housed in the area’s oldest building, a former fort built in 1865, the museum collection is vulnerable to damage caused by exposure to sunlight, dust, and insects. The project involves the restoration of the building and the outfitting of proper display and storage areas for artifacts and manuscripts.

K e n y a
Preservation of Cultural Patrimony in Lamu

$47,241 To support the preservation of a historic building and manuscripts in the town of Lamu on Kenya’s northern coast. The project involves the rehabilitation of the 19th-century Lamu Museum building and the preservation of handwritten Swahili manuscripts and a 200-year old map in the Lamu Fort Library.
Madagascar
Restoration of Historic Pathways in the Old City of Fianarantsoa
$22,953 To support the restoration of deteriorated historic pedestrian pathways in this 19th-century hillside city, identified by the World Monuments Watch as one of the world's most endangered historic sites. The walkways are seriously eroded, poorly drained, and missing pavers in some areas. The project focuses on the most damaged paths and involves local craftsmen skilled in traditional masonry and stonework.

Mali
Preservation and Protection of Cultural Patrimony in Djenne and Bandiagara
$57,789 To support efforts to raise public awareness and appreciation of Malian cultural heritage and its potential as a catalyst for economic development. Looting and artifact trafficking pose significant challenges in Mali, which this project addresses through training sessions, public information campaigns, and school kits.

Mozambique
Restoration of the “Crèche,” an 18th-Century Landmark on Mozambique Island
$90,000 To support the restoration of an important 18th-century building on the island of Mozambique, a World Heritage Site. The building is one of a small number of prominent buildings from this important period in the island’s history. The goal of this project is to restore and prepare the building for use by a government-supported community development foundation.
Sierra Leone

Preservation of 18th-20th Century Historical Documents in the Sierra Leone Public Archives

$29,845 To support the preservation of birth and death registers, liberated African registers, Arabic letter books, and other important historical documents dating from late 18th to the early 20th century. The project involves conservation treatment, improvements to the storage environment, inventory, and the digitization of documents for preservation and public access.

South Africa

Restoration of the 19th-Century Former Mission Church at Botshabelo

$20,715 To support the restoration of the thatched roof, windows, and interior of the former church at Botshabelo, a mission station established by the Berlin Missionary Society in 1868 as a safe haven from conflict. The brick church is a centerpiece of a historic property known for its ethnic diversity and agricultural innovation, and its restoration is vital to the preservation and sustainable development of the site.
Sudan

Restoration of the 14th-Century Mosque of Old Dongola

$33,455 To support the restoration of a 14th-century mosque in northern Sudan. Begun in the 9th century as a church, the building served as a mosque until 1969, when it fell into disrepair. The project includes test excavations and the partial restoration of the interior.

Tanzania

Restoration of the 18th-Century Kizimkazi Mosque

$21,500 To support the restoration of the Kizimkazi Mosque on the island of Zanzibar, one of the oldest Islamic buildings on the East African coast. Rebuilt in the 18th century, the mosque retains elements that date to its establishment in the 12th century and is renowned for its distinctive design and inscriptions.
“This grant from the U.S. government—and the great work of a number of diligent specialists—will ensure that Salvadorans and visitors for many years to come will be able to enjoy these and many other key pieces of MARTE’s (Museo de Arte de El Salvador) collection.”

The Americas

Bolivia
Preservation of Ancient Rock Art Sites at Betanzos

$20,300 To support the preservation of two exceptional rock art sites featuring polychrome designs and a sequence of different traditions spanning thousands of years. Vandalism is on the rise at these sites, which require protective measures to discourage or prevent it. This project includes an educational campaign and training for guides and site stewards.

Brazil
Documentation of Amazonian Oral Traditions

$50,344 To support the documentation of five endangered indigenous Amazonian languages from three distinct families and cultures and the collection of stories, legends, personal histories, and descriptions of modern life. The five languages are representative of the languages and cultures of the Amazon River basin and its watershed areas. The project includes CDs and DVDs documenting each ethnic group.

Dominican Republic
Restoration of the Altar of the Holy Relic in the 16th-Century Cathedral of Santo Domingo

$39,514 To support the restoration of an important wooden side altar in the 16th-century cathedral of Santo Domingo, a colonial city and World Heritage Site. Wooden altars in this region of the world are highly susceptible to insect infestation and decay. The project includes the controlled fumigation of the altar using nitrogen gas, structural consolidation, gilding, and restoration of the altar polychromy.
Ecuador

Restoration of “La Tropical,” a 19th-Century Hacienda House in Salango

$78,937 To support the restoration of “La Tropical,” a hacienda house built in 1898. The house has long been a focal point of the Salango community and a symbol of pride and cultural identity. The project involves the documentation and restoration of the house and the conservation of archaeological artifacts.

El Salvador

Conservation of the Collection of the Museum of Art of El Salvador

$20,184 To support improvements to the conservation environment of 225 works of 19th- and 20th-century Salvadoran art by providing equipment and supplies for their proper storage, handling, and documentation. Ultimately, this project benefits not only this particular collection but also other artwork and objects at the museum.

Guatemala

Conservation of Late Preclassic Murals at San Bartolo and the Temple of the Hieroglyphic Staircase at Yaxha-Nakum-Naranjo National Park, Ancient Maya Sites in the Eastern Petén

$575,251 To support the conservation of Late Preclassic period (c. 300 BC–200 AD) Maya murals at San Bartolo, as well as the conservation of the Classic period (c. 250 AD–900 AD) Maya Temple of the Hieroglyphic Staircase and the documentation of plundering at Yaxha-Nakum-Naranjo National Park, sites of great importance in understanding the ancient Maya civilization in the eastern Petén. The murals are in urgent need of stabilization, and the temple and national park are currently attractive targets for looters.

U.S. Embassy Guatemala City
Restoration of the Altar of the Holy Relic in the 16th-Century Cathedral of Santo Domingo.
Honduras
Preservation of Colonial Period Cultural Patrimony in Comayagua and Santa Rosa de Copan

$31,288 To support the documentation of traditions, uses, and customs associated with Colonial period ecclesiastical cultural property and related institutions, and to work with local communities to revive and sustain these practices in churches that are vulnerable to looting. The project involves workshops on establishing measures to control and protect property and the publication of the project findings.

Jamaica
Restoration of Five Historic Paintings in the National Gallery of Jamaica

$27,330 To support the conservation of five historic paintings from the 18th and 20th centuries in the permanent collection of the National Gallery of Jamaica. The paintings require immediate treatment to forestall irreversible deterioration. This project continues work begun under a previous grant in 2006.

Nicaragua
Preservation of Nicaragua’s Archaeological Patrimony

$41,014 To support the identification and registration of important sites and archaeological artifacts of cultural interest in the northern parts of the country which are at very high risk of damage or loss and to strengthen local capacity for cultural preservation. The project involves the direct participation of local communities.
Conservation of the Archaeological Collection of the Contisuyo Museum in Moquegua. U.S. Embassy Lima
Peru

Conservation of the Archaeological Collections of the Sican Museum

$29,910 To support the conservation of a recently acquired Sican (750–1375 AD) archaeological collection. The materials from this new collection will be assessed, catalogued, conserved, and then registered in the museum’s collections management database. The project includes the purchase of dehumidifiers for the storage spaces and an online catalogue.

Peru

Preservation of Cultural Patrimony in Arequipa

$26,514 To support the registration, inventory, and cataloging of art objects of 20 colonial period (16th-19th-century) churches in Arequipa and the surrounding area. The inventory covers artwork and other objects of a historical or artistic value that are vulnerable to looting. This project supports the Memorandum of Understanding between the governments of Peru and the United States on the protection of cultural patrimony.

Peru

Conservation of the Archaeological Collection of the Contisuyo Museum in Moquegua

$16,881 To support the conservation of the museum’s diverse collection of pre-Columbian textiles, early stone works, and ceremonial ceramic vases that range in age from 500 to 10,000 years. The collection has grown rapidly, and the museum urgently needs to improve the conservation environment. This project provides climate controls, new storage cases, conservation materials, and electronic scales for use in registering and monitoring acquisitions.
“THE PROJECT WILL RESEARCH THE RELIGIOUS AND CULTURAL TRADITIONS

OF TWO ETHNIC MINORITY GROUPS, THE LANTEN AND YAO. THE RESEARCH WILL

BE USED TO HELP THE PEOPLE OF LAOS TO LEARN MORE ABOUT

THE HISTORY AND CULTURE OF THE LAO PDR.”

Raviv R. Huso, U.S. Ambassador to Laos

East Asia & Pacific

Burma
Preservation of Burmese Musical Traditions

$33,870  To support the preservation of traditional Burmese music and its historical context. The project involves extensive interviews with elderly musicians, capturing anecdotes, personal expressions, advice, and training, along with the digitization of a collection of 8,000 Burmese recordings dating back to 1910.

Cambodia
Conservation of the 10th-Century Temple of Phnom Bakheng

$978,705  To support the stabilization and conservation of the east façade of the 10th-century Phnom Bakheng Temple, the most visited temple at Angkor Archaeological Park and one of the greatest cultural achievements of the Khmer Kingdom. The harsh tropical climate and mass tourism have taken their toll on the ancient monument. The project involves emergency stabilization of structures at risk of collapse and the conservation of the most deteriorated façade.

Cambodia
Preservation of the Archives of the National Museum of Cambodia

$45,386  To support the preservation of the National Museum’s archives. Less well known than the art collection, the archives contain valuable photographs related to the museum collection and Cambodian history and art. The project involves the cataloging and physical conservation of documents, improved storage conditions for archival records, the implementation of an archival records database for managing the records, and training for museum staff.
To support the preservation of ritual celebrations, songs, games, and other threatened folk cultural activities in Tibetan communities in Qinghai Province. The project includes the production and distribution of a nine-part series of DVDs and books, each detailing a specific activity, to increase awareness and interest in Tibetan folk culture.
To support the conservation and display of a unique collection of silk embroideries dating from 770 to 221 BC. Current storage and display conditions do not control for humidity, light, or pollution, and the collection urgently needs protection. This project involves display area upgrades, an exhibit, and a catalogue.
Laos

Documentation of Iu Mien (Yao) and Kim Mun (Lanten) Taoist Rituals in Northern Laos

$30,126 To support the documentation of Taoist and shamanistic rituals of the Iu Mien and Kim Mun ethnic minorities of northern Laos and the promotion and preservation of this heritage for future generations. These upland peoples have been resettled by the government, and their traditional belief systems and rituals have been disrupted. The project includes photographic and audiovisual recording of their activities.

Laos

Training in the Preservation of Palm Leaf Manuscripts

$9,000 To support workshops for young monks and lay people in scientific methods of preserving palm leaf manuscripts and in reading the Tham script. Thousands of fragile manuscripts detailing the history of the Lao are deteriorating. The project involves broad participation from all over Laos and the publication of preservation guides at the conclusion of the workshops.

Marshall Islands

Preservation of Traditional Marshallese Navigation

$25,290 To support the documentation of traditional knowledge of navigation and transmission of that knowledge to the next generation. The Marshallese possess a unique and sophisticated system for navigation based on reading the effects of atolls on ocean swells and currents, but only three elderly master navigators remain. The project involves onshore training, sea trials, a sea voyage, and documentation of these activities on DVD.
Micronesia
Preservation of Reel-to-Reel Recordings of Chants, Dances, and Stories of Yap State

$21,000 To support the preservation and dissemination of cultural information contained in 20th-century reel-to-reel recordings of traditional dances, chants, and stories. This state radio tape collection is highly susceptible to deterioration and desperately needs to be cleaned, indexed, and digitized for preservation and use.

Mongolia
Preservation of Bronze Age Khanui Valley Deer Stones

$38,960 To support the preservation and protection of Bronze Age (second millennium BC) stelae in the remote Khanui Valley. Damaged by grazing animals, the harsh steppe weather, and human activity, the stones and the designs carved on them are in danger of disappearing. This project includes documentation work, protective measures, and an informational campaign to educate visitors about their value as cultural heritage. It builds upon a project supported through the Ambassadors Fund in 2004.

Papua New Guinea
Preservation of the Architectural Traditions of Papua New Guinea

$13,100 To support the documentation of traditional buildings and settlement patterns in Papua New Guinea. In their tropical environment, Papuan buildings built using traditional methods degrade quickly and are increasingly replaced with new buildings of modern material and design. This project includes a survey of traditional architecture in eight provinces and support for the Architectural Heritage Centre of Papua New Guinea to carry out the survey work.
Philippines

Documentation of the Oral Traditions of Ifugao

$19,000 To support the documentation of the Hudhud and Alim epics of the Ifugao people, two traditions passed down orally from generation to generation and recognized by UNESCO as Masterpieces of the Intangible Heritage of Humanity. The project, which involves the audiovisual recording of chants and their transcription and translation into three languages, builds upon a 2007 project to support the preservation of the Banaue Rice Terraces, a World Heritage Site.

Timor-Leste

Preservation of Timor-Leste’s Uma Lulic Heritage

$32,000 To support the preservation of four Uma Lulic sacred houses in Timor-Leste. The Uma Lulic tradition is sacred in all parts of Timor-Leste and a powerful symbol of unity in a fractured country trying to rebuild its heritage. The preservation of these four houses follows a previous project supported by the Ambassadors Fund in 2006 to document the rituals and traditions associated with the construction of Uma Lulics.

Vietnam

Preservation of 17th-19th-Century Devotional Wooden Carvings at the Nam Dinh Provincial Museum

$30,000 To support the preservation of more than 50 carved, painted, and gilt wooden objects in the Nam Dinh Provincial Museum. The objects, which date from the 17th to the 19th century, represent a wide variety of subject matter, from flora and fauna to religious personages and themes. The preservation of these objects is a necessary prerequisite for their eventual display in the museum.
Preservation of Bronze Age Khanui Valley Deer Stones. U.S. Embassy Ulaanbaatar
Preservation of the 4th-Century BC Thracian Tomb of Kran II in the Valley of the Thracian Kings. U.S. Embassy Sofia
“[W]hen I had the opportunity to be assigned to the American Embassy in Minsk, one of the first trips I made was to this place... And I am very honored to be here in Vitebsk for this year’s award which is to the People’s Art School, for the restoration of this important building.”

Albania

Conservation of Artifacts in the Museum of Prehistory

$7,804 To support the conservation of 250 prehistoric artifacts on display at the Museum of Prehistory. The collection includes ceramics and iron, silver, and other metal objects such as tools, weapons, jewelry, and religious artifacts. The project involves the cleaning and consolidation of the most threatened artifacts.

Azerbaijan

Preventive Conservation of the Collection at the Mohammad Fuzuli Institute of Manuscripts

$53,109 To support improvements to manuscript storage and display conditions at the Mohammad Fuzuli Institute of Manuscripts at the Azerbaijan National Academy of Sciences. The institute houses Azerbaijan’s primary collection of rare Eastern medieval texts, including approximately 40,000 Azeri, Turkish, Uzbek, Persian, and Arabic works on medicine, astronomy, mathematics, poetry, philosophy, law, history, and geography, and rare Korans dating back to the 15th century.
